its bin a long time sinse i last rote you but you no i've bin busy studiing a fellow got to gradueight some-time no matter how dumb he is it seams funny to think that i'me going to gradueight i remember wen i was a freshie i thot it must feal wonderful to be a senyor but now that i'me a senyor its nothing it seams ordinary and naturalike maybe i almost wish i was a freshie again so i kud do things differant life's like that isn't it mom wen we finnish a thing we look back and say 'i shoood hav dun this or that a differant way but who nose what wood hav happenedif we akted the other way so we got to be satisfide with things as they are

i kan rekall the time we were freshies the 1st day was like the time you lost me at the ralerode stashun everyting was all mixed up after a wile things began to get straitened out and our prinsiple told us something about our skool being the best skool in the solar sistem he had to explane to us what the solar sistem was and then we understould what he ment he also told us something about no one having a rite to do that witch if everyone did wood destroy sosiety that state-ment dint' meen much to me then but now i see how trew it is i may forget how to conjugeight 'faire' or what pi r squared is but i'll never forget those words of our prinsiple anyhow after a wile we had elekshuns and we chose howard stocker for precedant wendell corey for vise precedant kirtly judd for sekritary fred gordon for tresurer and roger ettling for member at large after that everything went hunky dory and wen we all new each other we had a soshal it was a swell soshal and it was a fitting close to our 1st yeer at central the 1st thing we did in our 2nd yeer was to elekt new offisors sinse our former precedant left we chose this time for precedant wendell corey for vise precedant we chose dorothy bolles for sekritary clara gurvitch for tresurer gertrude twitchell and for member at large again roger ettling after we did that we went our differant ways some of us set down to study some to lofe and some to nock around and have a good time well each of us got out of central just what we put in some of us are sorry we dint study more and some of us are sorry we dint have more fun we're all sorry for things we dint do but before you start bewailing the fakt of your suns failure to be an honer pupil i better go ahed and tell about our klass we had our junyor prom neer the end of the term it was a very nise affare and no one had to be karried out and then kame our last yeer we were praktikally the same klass as we were 2 yeers ago exsept that some had dropped out for 1 reezon or another but mostly for 1 reezon and you no what mom our klass has a distinkshun yes a distinkshun we are the 1st klass that has an all femail offisor bord that is all our offisors are girls well mom i got to hand it to you wimen everyone dint think our klass wood aklompish much under there ruling but i gess everyone has bin shone that a klass kan be run as effshiently if not bettor by wimen the offisors are gertrude twitchell precedant dorothy bolles vise precedant elizabeth dorr sekritary jean-ne miles tresurer and clara gurvitch member at large.

and now as i'me riting you this letter we are turning down the home stretch we are going to have our prom bankwet and graduashun you no mom the 3 yeers i've spent hear hav passed like a flash i kan remember the 1st days i spent hear so well it seams as if it were just yesterday well i suppose we must go on dint some poet say something about how the old order changeth yield-ing place to new i gess that sort of fits us

The Prophecy of the Class of 1932¹/₂

"Good afternoon, ladies and gentlemen:—This is Willie Streeter speaking to you from the historic Yale Bowl in New Haven. It is our privilege today to bring you a play-by-play picture of the 100th meeting on the gridiron between two of football's most ancient rivals, Harvard and Yale. May I say at this time that we of the International Broadcasting Company regret that our phototelephonic equipment will not be available for a brief period before the game, so in the meantime we ask you to sit back and listen while we try to reproduce for you a verbal-picture of the colorful gathering here in the Bowl. May I introduce to you at this time one of the most scintillating members of our broadcasting staff, Miss RITA MAHER, former Springfield, Massachusetts debutante, and present-day society tatler of the first magnitude, whose clues of today become the gossip of tomorrow. Miss MAHER will describe for you some of the interesting personalities attending the game."

"Hello, everybody, I've been so busy this afternoon running around trying to be everywhere that I've barely had time for even my pipe. Really, I feel like an ultra-modern Walter Winchell. I know you are all dying to learn about these famous and infamous personages who are here, and since I have only a few minutes to talk, I must begin now.

"One of the first people I ran into was ELINORE DELEHANTY, ex-chorine of the FINE & EPSTEIN "Anatomies." And with her was her usual following: GEORGE HART, WALLY BECKMAN, and BRUCE JAGER, Agawam's perennial play-boys.

"Gather closely, m'dears, for here is real soil. The former MISSES BETTY [FIVE-YEAR-PLAN] DORR and BETTY [DEMOCRAT] CHAPIN are here incognito. Rumor hath it that their grandchildren will be playing for Harvard and Yale respectively.

"Across the stadium on the Harvard side we saw GERT TWITCHELL with CLAYTON KEISER, national executive of the Youth Movement. Miss TWITCHELL won her claim to fame with her plea against woman suffrage. Her arguments placed the woman in the home.

"Did I tell you — LEN SIEGEL, megaphone magnate, has the feather monopoly here in New Haven. He was always a salesman, of a sort.

"And here's something which might interest "youse intellectuals." BERT HESS and JACK LYNCH, who are science professors at Yale, are attending the game. What are they doing at a football game?

"Right down there in front of the Harvard bench is PHIL WALSH, graduate manager of athletics up in Cambridge. A few minutes ago, a young lady approached THE WALSH, and he actually spoke to the Miss. The old boy is acquiring a way with the women, methinks.

"There is a story about that JOHN BREGGIO, band-maestro of no small fame. He has made a special trip to New Haven to lead the Yale band this afternoon in a number of his own composition, "You Red-Headed Child."

"My, oh my, right down in front of me are RUTH CROSS and WENDELL COREY — and still holding hands. We aren't sure that's news, but it's at least acknowledging an old custom.

"They tell me that RUSS [THE GREAT LOVE] BRASARD and OLIVE BURGESS are here today somewhere. Miss BURGESS, you will recall, caught the public eye when she established a new marriage record for non-polygamists. Ten grass and five sod was her score.

"I heard a swell story before leaving for New Haven. PETE WARREN, Tammany's head of the Vigilantes, was taking his morning constitutional in the Furious Fifties. Apparently his mind was wrapped up in some social reform, for his steps led him up to 53rd St. Somehow he managed to bump into JEANNE [SHYLOCK] MILES. Shylock — I mean JEANNE — was so peeved at being thus rudely aroused from her reverie, that she involuntarily broke their mutual silence of nigh on fifty years standing with — well, never mind.

"Speaking of silence, DOT BOLLES is now in her 4,761st day of reticence. People will do almost anything for fame. Still, that's not as bad as those pseudo-technocrats, BOVIO CATALDO and BOB LYONS, who are still waiting patiently for their ball-bearing, whirling through space to wear out.

"An agent reports that mingling in the stands today — and probably unknown to one another — are the three figures who appeared in a notorious divorce trial years back — noblest of the renowned triangles, TIGER GIBBS, MARY SLOAN and JANIE [HOT CHA] TAYLOR. The case ended when JANIE fled the scene of exposure, crying "I'm going back to the country to forget this connubial bliss." Nerts — in the jargon of the times. In the final fadeout, MARY is in the TIGER's arms, out of the shadow of the Blind Lady.

"Flying low over the field is that Moto-Zep, advertising FAGIN Alarm Clocks. Necessity certainly is the mother of invention.

"I'll bet CAROLYN HARE will never invent a satisfactory face-powder though. Miss HARE is professor emeritus of the Physiognomy School of Exterior Decoration.

"And here comes the Harvard team. Their suits fit so well they must have been styled by PEG WEBER.

"Heavens, my time must be getting short. There are still hundreds of people coming through the portals. Some of my sister committee-women on the National Board for the Curing of Blasphemy and Other Vices have just arrived. Yes, there's RUTH ROCHFORD, GINGER BUGBEE, FRANCES STEPETH, and IRVING SISSON. Pardon me, ladies and gentlemen, that last name was an error. I mean AUDREY TINGLEY, who offered such valuable suggestion in our last campaign against high school sororities — and BETTY STEPHENSON, EDITH WEAKE, and HELEN HOSMER. Pst — they must have convinced their husbands to take a trip to Europe.

"And now the Yale team has come onto the field, and I must leave you. I haven't been able to tell you about half of the noted people here today. I'm sure, though, that you'll enjoy the picture we are bringing to you this afternoon, and I hope that you will be able to join us on New Year's Day when we will bring you the story of the Tournament of Roses game in Los Angeles. We have a personal appearance at that game of HAROLD COX, internationally famous sports-writer, who will interview some of the western team. Until, then, this is RITA MAHER saying good-afternoon, and turning the mike back to Willie Streeter."

"Well, ladies and gentlemen, the engineers tell me that we are almost ready to switch to the photo-telephone wave. But first may I give you the officials for the game this afternoon:

Ref.: TAKIE MEGAS — Vesper George School of Art.

Ump.: L. BARR — Manhattan Aggie.

Timer: L. COHEN — Brooklyn College of Pharmacy.

Linesman: H. THOMAS — Boston School of Mining.

Before I go off the air, may I suggest that you keep this station adjustment, since we will take you to a coffee-hour at KEN KILBURN's Morgue immediately following the game. As you know, VILLA BAILEY and her band play there every afternoon. You will also have an opportunity to see RUTH CARMAN, famed American ballet instructor and her talented pupils execute the Dance of the Seven Shrouds.

"This is Willie Streeter speaking and transferring you to our photo-telephone wave. We'll be on our vocal wave again at six o'clock, eastern energy time. Good afternoon."

The Prophecy on the Prophets

*Article found in the Gossip Column of the Springfield Gazette
January 20, 1945.*

A notable gathering attended the first appearance in the city last evening of Sidney Kurnitsky, one of the foremost of present day poets.

Among the first to arrive was Professor John Lynch who recently received international recognition for his discoveries in the field of Technocracy. However, more interesting to us is the fact that Mr. Lynch was accompanied, as usual, by Miss Fredericka Davis. In our opinion the professor is a lucky man. We also noticed the Misses Clara Gurvitch and Ida Askinas, co-winners of the nation-wide Endurance Talking Contest which was sponsored by a local business woman, Adele Fuller, owner of the City Steel Mill.

After Mr. Kurnitsky had read several of his better known compositions, the audience voted that, "The Axe in Room 118," one of his boyhood poems, ranked high among his best works.

The Presentations of the Class of 1932 $\frac{1}{2}$

We were studying hard, engrossed in our work. Ten minutes of the study were left and still thirty more lines of Virgil to do. Clank, clank, clank! Oh, heavenly divinities, would that noise ever cease? In behalf of lower classes and classes yet to come we wish to banish this fear. Mr. Hill, we present you with these baby rubbers.

GERTRUDE, you are the first girl to ever be the president of a class in Central High. WE will always remember this. Accept this gavel which will be a symbol to you of a great power achieved by no other Central girl.

Between home work and the work you do outside, as well as for the class, you are a very busy girl. This telephone may help you, BETTY [DORR] to transact your business more easily.

Like a tiger after it's prey, JEANNE [MILES], you taunt your victims and snare them in your trap. How many innocent ones have you caught? Here is a mouse trap as a symbol of your success.

We saw WENDELL [COREY] sitting at a desk, RUTH [CROSS] was beside him. We saw RUTH walking down the corridor, WENDELL was beside her. Wherever we see RUTH, we see Wendell. We present you, WENDELL and RUTH, with this leash so that you may never be separated.

Who is that well dressed girl? Remarks like these beseege our ears whenever you walk by, RITA [MAHER]. Here is a copy of Vogue so that you may always be up to the times.

There have been many complaints, recently, concerning a pungent odor that would prevade the whole room. Upon investigation, with masks, the odor was found to come from a sweet scented cloud surrounding you, CAROLYN [HARE]. The class presents you with this compact so that after graduating you may still continue to cast this aroma about wherever you are.

You PHILIP [EPSTEIN] always seem to be doubtful in the morning about attending school. This is probably a natural feeling to one who arises at nine-thirty. Here is a watch to help you to be more punctual.

LEWIS [COHEN], your internal rattlings are always well meant. We advise you, however, for your own good, to restrain some of those bits of wisdom that drop from your lips. We present you with this muzzle to help you to that end.

Last Will and Testament of the Class of 1932 $\frac{1}{2}$

We, the class of 1932 $\frac{1}{2}$, in the year of our Lord, 1933, in the independence of the United States, the 158th, in the foundation of Central High School the 150th, being in full and complete possession of our minds, yet considering the uncertainty of our lives and to the end we may leave the Central High School in good standing, do hereby declare, publish, and assert this to be our last will and testament.

First: To our Principal, the Honorable Mr. W. C. Hill, we, the class of 1932 $\frac{1}{2}$, leave the following: [1] One pair of felt-soled sneakers, in order that while going through room 323 he won't wake any of the industrious students. [2] One comfortable chair in his office, so that he may for once be in when a pupil in distress seeks him. [3] Another universe so that Central might be twice as good.

Second: To the class of 1933 we leave our good old expression, "We're not proud" — along with an assorted bunch of megaphones.

ARTICLE I. George Fine leaves that girlish figure to Peewee Cohen.

ARTICLE II. Ralph Gibbs leaves his ability as a sterling penman and speller to anyone who wants it. [And don't say we didn't warn you.

ARTICLE III. Mary Purdy — of the Pennsylvucky Purdys — leaves that slouch to Virginia Leete, who has for three years tried to copy it; and we must say she has succeeded in a big way

ARTICLE IV. To Julian Amolsky, Jack Lynch leaves that irresistible charm with women, and his ready repartee.

ARTICLE V. We, the class of 1932 $\frac{1}{2}$, leave Mr. Ed. Smith out of the will — for a change.

ARTICLE VI. Gert Twitchell leaves her prominence to Jimmy Gray. [He can take it or leave it.]

ARTICLE VII. To Tom Tuohey, the big spark and battery man, Betty Chapin leaves her giggles. We always wanted to hear a bass giggle.

ARTICLE VIII. Carolyn Hare, that ravishing brunette, leaves her ability to wield a lipstick, and her strength to carry all that nail polish, to Suzanne Blanc — her only real rival.

ARTICLE IX. Bill Streeter would like to leave something, but [poor fellow] after three weeks in the hospital he claims he has nothing left to leave.

ARTICLE X. Lennie Siegel leaves his tender school-girl complexion — plus a blow torch to singe his beard — to Jimmy Maxfield.

ARTICLE XI. Irv Sisson leaves the school and no one even notices it.

ARTICLE XII. Eileen Gordenstein leaves her wit to Snakes Goffard; maybe he'll have a whole one now.

ARTICLE XIII. Bud Doyle leaves those white shoes — if we have to take them off him.

ARTICLE XIV. Ken Kilburn, the tea-dancer, leaves that "come-and-trip-it-as-you-go" form to Kirtley Judd.

ARTICLE XV. To Bugs Cohen, Harold Cox, our strong and silent, leaves his soccer ability. We're sure he'll feel grateful.

ARTICLE XVI. Contrary to opinion, Dotty Bolles will not leave Roger Ettling. She's coming back for a P. G. to keep an eye open for all competition.

ARTICLE XVII. Elinore Delehanty and Olive Burgett, those striking opposites, leave their ability to make the lads sit up and take notice to Rita Lee Ascher and Teresa Beargeon, their duplicates.

ARTICLE XVIII. To Bruce Proctor, Bruce Jager, that handsome lad, leaves his ability to philander and yet get away with it [We wonder how he does it.]

ARTICLE XIX. Jane Taylor leaves her cute giggles in the care of Mr. Brown, so he won't get lonesome during his spare hours.

ARTICLE XX. Wendell Corey — under protest — leaves his popularity

ARTICLE XXI. We leave all our presentations — in a heap — to the ashman.

ARTICLE XXII. Auntie Rita Maher, that dynamo of personality, hopefully leaves some of her dynamite to hopeful Hope Chapin hoping it will help Hope hope for Hope to hope — we hope.

ARTICLE XXIII. We leave all future students at Central High to the mercies of those who have been merciful [or merciless] to us.

In witness whereof we have signed, declared, and published this instrument to be our last will and testament, on the twentieth day of January, nineteen hundred and thirty three.

Signed: GERTRUDE TWITCHELL.

Signed, sealed, published and declared by the above president as and for the last will and testament of the class of 1932½ and in presence of us the undersigned, who at her request, have drawn up and signed as witnesses to the same.

Toast to the Girls of '32½

Here's to the girls of '32½

A toast I am glad to propose,
To the better half of our classmates,
And the brightest, as everyone knows.

For the future we wish you good fortune,
And everything good fortune sends,
We assure you that always you'll find us
Your sincere and most loyal friends.

Then here's to the girls of '32½.

A class which none may surpass;
For the sake of our school days to-gether
A toast to — "The Girls of Our Class."

Toast to the Boys of '32½

Here's to the boys of '32½.

Our brothers, our comrades, our chums;
Whenever I think of their virtues,
My head with their praises just hums.

They've faithfully sampled our cooking,
For they've purchased our candy and cake,
And brought their loose change to the tea dances,
We've held for dear Central's sake.

Then here's to the boys of '32½.

Good fortune, as years swiftly pass,
And may the world have cause to honor
The men, once, "The Boys of Our Class."

The Prophecy of The Class of 1933

SCENE

*Hideous witches around some brew;
[It looks as if it's three point two].
I think that it would greatly pay
To hear the very words they say.*

Say, look here, girls, and you will see
The future fates of thirty-three.
For in this liquid, clear as glass,
I see the members of our class.
Laugh if you will and doubt my word,
But you will find I have not erred.
Believe it or not, I'm here to say,
Over thousands of men is Jimmie Gray.
For that bright boy, a fighter, no quitter,
Has attained the heights as a flag-pole sitter.
Robert Elmer, below the champ,
Is reading "The Bobbsy Twins at Camp."
He's the operator of an escalator,
Though he used to run an elevator.
But the mental effort was too strong,
For his head, when hit, rings like a gong.
He'll guide us to the second floor,
To the right we turn, the second door.
Here's an office, "The Intourist,"
Which is run by Zedra Jurist.
Across the hall a friend we find,
Sylvia Goldart, that great grind.
At her desk she's eating soups,
Made of chicken from Klar's coops.
And jesting with her as she sits
Is that great sage, our Labovitz.
Now let us leave this stuffy room
Where all the jokes are from a tomb.
To linger longer is no treat;
So we will go into Main Street.
A shop quite near has Sydney Ascher,
Who's gyping the public as a harberdasher.
Outside who's that he greets—
It's Donald Wiltse cleaning streets.
Kenny Kilburn right next door
Is operating a jewelry store,
For everything ten years to pay
At the rate of half a cent a day.
To the street let's turn our gaze,
For now a sight does me amaze.
In a Ford sits Morris Starr,
The chauffeur of Nan Lapham's car.
Bawling him out is Gene McCarthy,
The best patrolman of his party.
His waist is now a sixty-three,
Though not from drinking too much tea.
Maxfield's brewery is on his beat,
And now he cannot see his feet.
From whence now does arise that roar?
It comes from a department store.
In Stillman's window is Barbara Gleason,
Showing the latest gowns in season.
In the crowd gawks Frances Palmer,
Who, as at Central, is a charmer,
With her, that sweet kid, Barbara Niles,
Whose husband works at cutting tiles.
Up against the lamp-post pining,
Though the noon-day sun is shining,
Under a purple striped umbrella,
With George Carlson slumps Sannella.

"GENE MCCARTHY---And now he cannot see his feet"

They give a leap as a car goes by,
And Sannella's umbrella sticks in Carlson's eye,
But they make the car, and are on their way
To Northampton Asylum's Visiting Day,
Where some of their friends are now confined
In cells with softest padding lined.
When they arrive, the first they see
Is Jimmie Goffard howling with glee;
For he'd become a Mormon Elder,
The bigger a wife the tighter he held her,
But wild Lil Mount he held too tight,
And she got him locked up here one night,
Where his face will turn a sickly green
As he counts absent wives on an adding machine.
They leave poor Jimmy alone awhile
To gaze at another's witless smile,
For right beside them grins Van Vander
Leading after him a harmless gander.
And following them is a balmy third,
Harold Cohn! [Pray spare that bird!]
He's pursued with gestures gay
By daffodil-decorated Cécile Boucher.
And full of joy is Addie Bliss
Who tries to give them all a kiss.
Let's leave this crowd and look around.
Who's this who's strutting o'er the ground?
As I live, it's Bonnie Bob,
Who has at last gone off his nob.
His fame has led him, of all things,
To think he's one of the Stuart kings!
Above him the ceiling quivers and shakes
Where, tied to a pillar, Bob Sampson fakes
The fate of his namesake of Biblical days,
Which shows how great is his mental daze.
In a cellar cross the two next aisles,
We see our hardworked Bryant Stiles,
Who lost his wits from studying nights

And now is trying to put them to rights.
 They say he's cured, but I doubt it yet —
 It's just about an even bet.
 And right beside him is William Cooney
 Boy, oh boy! And is he loony!
 In the next cell is Kirtley Judd,
 Off from his medicine blowing the sud.
 Let's leave these scenes for some, more tame,
 And wander down the country lane.
 A procession passes down the road,
 And in a hearse is a human load.
 Riding at ease is Phillips Baker
 Driving the hearse as an undertaker,
 Plotting and planning how to make
 Deane Moore the next journey to take
 In the cemetery with some orris
 Is that parson, Mitchell Morris.

While "Bury" Berenson, with spade in hand.
 Is waiting to throw in the sand.
 In the crowd is Dorothy Rice,
 Who likes to look at sights so nice.
 Doris Chapman is at her side
 Sucking a lollipop with calm pride.
 Watching the box is Barbara Sharpe,
 Who strums a hymn on an old jew's harp.
 We'll leave this bunch of happy guys;
 This sight's too cheerful for our eyes.
 We'll wander down the same old lane
 And look at farms that now raise grain.
 There whizzes by and passes us
 A well filled old brown motor bus.
 It's carrying picknickers, blithe and gay,
 Who've bummed their firm for a holiday.
 Louis Mulveny is the chauffeur.
 To us he looks more like a loafer.
 He stops the car from which doth jump
 And land on earth with a big thump
 Eileen Macomber, that great entrancer,
 Who gained great fame as a marathon dancer.
 Ruth Kerns is there with Rita Clark
 Who came out here for a merry lark.

Helen Rawstron is also there;
 In this picnic she has a share.
 This is the outing of Lipman's store,
 All the customers leave there sore.
 Fred Lewis rides up on a "hoss",
 Lipman is his skinflint boss.
 When the rest have left the car,
 Though some have wandered off afar,
 Those left start up a baseball game.
 Babe Ruth and they are not the same.
 "The battery", the umpire shouts
 [It's Ed Bartlett announcing the louts]
 "Is Marjorie Farmer and Katie Field",
 Who both use helmets as a shield.
 The first baseman is Eleanor Reece;
 Off her glove the ball slides like grease.
 But just then the game is smashed,
 For through the trees a huge shape crashed,
 Waddling out with a clumsy lope,
 Beating his chest with a bar of soap

Is caveman Tuohey, covered with hair,
 He's just come out of his cold, dark lair.
 He powders his face with a powder puff
 And cries out in a voice quite rough
 "—33 ""|||-3 [CENSORED ""[||||]*?"",
 The girls are shocked at his fearful words
 And fly from the place like startled birds.
 Soon the place they did desert,
 Giving caveman Tuohey no chance to flirt.
 We run and run to the barn
 That marks the sight of Guernsey's farm
 Where Bernie Bernstein, I'm afeared,
 With hay seed in his hair and beard,
 Is going to feed the husky sows
 As Edith Mielow milks the cows.
 Newell Cummings beneath a mule,
 Lights a fire with snickers cruel.
 The offended beast gives such a boot
 That Newell needs a parachute,
 But lands up on a stack of hay
 Where Charlie Weitzman sleeps all day.
 Newell's cries as he doth land
 Call forth fair milk maid, Slingerland.
 Who with her training cultivates
 Musical beets at reasonable rates.
 Down the road's another farm;
 To look in there'll do us no harm.
 Here Morry Lerner with pipe and gun
 In hunting foxes has his fun.
 And runs a farm for breeding rabbits
 And other beasts of prolific habits.

And just to give the place a tone,
His snappy assistant is Samuel Cohen.
And then Sam Golub adds to its renown
As champion hog-caller of the town.
Here's for another magic draught;
It's sure enough to drive one daft.
There's Angers' circus where, they say,
Snakes are swallowed, merely for play,
By Lloyd Rich who charms as well
By singing the "Farmer in the Dell".
To attract the crowds before the tent.
The best we can say is 'twas well meant.
At this same circus Virginia Draper
On the tight-rope doth cut a caper.
Outside is Ettling, our dear Roger,
Who's gaining applause as a baseball dodger.
And Frank Umansky, that great sharker,
Before the freak show is the barker,
Where he exhibits for all to see
The grinning face of Myron Widlansky,
Who clad in tights of purple hue
Exposes his biceps to the view.
A strong man he, who glowers in rage
At wildman Waldman in the opposite cage,
But winks an eye that's filled with joy
At Clark Richards, the dog-faced boy.
Across the aisle in spite of his size,
Although we can scarcely believe our eyes
Is the bearded lady, Vergani Gus,
Who with a smirk does smile at us,
And sings duets in a plaintive alto,
Which blends in well with Crosby's contralto.
And Briskin's there and Lester Brisk,
As Siamese twins they gamble and frisk,
To lure the customers into the place,
Though it can't be said they do it with grace.
Now stop this bunk, my fellow witches;
There's a sight will put you in stitches,
And others too, or I miss my guess.
Oh boy, is Glaccum's nose a mess.
For here, I see, she's a boxing champ,
Who's trying her fists on Virginia Camp.
They're fighting before an enormous crowd;
But above the roar both clear and loud
"Whack 'em, Glaccum," Bill Canfield cries,
"Black her nose and sock her eyes."
For Bill is there to hear and see
And cheer Marie to victory.
This fight is a wow for the boxing fans,
And quite exceeds the promoter's plans.
Now I see that it's Dick Strout,
Who's managing this boxing bout

The next event is a fight to the death,
Without a pause to draw a breath,
Between two fighters, gruff and harsh,
Donald Martin and bold Spike Marsh.
I'll say these two brutes never fake it.
Martin slugs and can Marsh take it!
Other boxers, cut to ribbons,
Are Hubert Cole and Kenny Gibbons.
They're not so fierce as Marsh and Martin,
But when they sock, their socks are "sartin."
When they're dragged out, the next who is seen
Is big Sam Crowther but not Lavene,
Who ducks Sam's blows with lightning speed,
So Sam can't see him when there's need.
The whole bout's pictured word for word
By a radio man whose voice is blurred.
This lad is none other than Danny O'Neil,
Boy, oh boy, can that boy spiel!
This boxing match has too much noise,
We'll leave this bunch of rowdy boys.
Let's turn our gaze to Washington
To see just how the country's run.
At the President's desk is Joe Onorato,
"Do as little as possible," that's his motto.
Now enters the boss, her name is Ruth Manning,
To get him to work she's always planning,
But though she is President, she can't make him move,
For he's already settled in his lazy groove.
Ruth's power's tremendous in the cabinet,
And most of these are girls you've met.
There's Myrtle Brunelle, Dot Mozley too,
Both secretaries of home brew.
"Bab" Mulheron is boss of the styles,
And can she use her feminine wiles!
Into the Senate, we'll now go.
[Boy! oh Boy! can you hear that row?].
Betty Smith is on the floor,
While behind her desk Bonnel does snore.
Thelma Lester sits beside her,
Filling her gullet with a glass of cider.
A crisis is in the country now;
Each farmer has left his plow;
A revolution will break out today
If nothing's done; but what care they.
For a whisper is running through the house
That there's a style show chez Hubert Shouse.
It's being run by Eleanor Raynes,
Who makes doting fathers rack their brain.
The assembly runs forth in a hurry
Led by Senator Agnes Murray.
Out of the building they now go
[And believe me they're not so slow].
Leaving the country to its fate.
With never a thought to investigate
The sinister plans of the country's foes
Swift to the show the Senate goes.
But little they reck their hour has come,
Or they'd scarcely be so frolicsome;
For there awaiting the ladies' rush,
His pale cheeks red from an angry blush,
With gleaming eyes stands Harry Daum,
And into their midst he throws a bomb.
So ends the reign of gynocracy;
And enters the rule of technocracy.
This time the leader is Suzanne Blanc;
Of the wheels of government she turns the crank
And so we'll leave her to weal or woe,
And to the social world we'll go.
Here we'll look into the fate
Of that social lion, Wilson Haight.
He visits ladies every day;

"NEWELL CUMMINGS beneath a mule
Lights a fire with snickers cruel."

By reading meters he makes his pay.
 Marian Hebert lives on his route;
 To win her favor he plies his suit.
 His wife just now is the ex-Anne Clarke,
 Whom he leaves while on a lark.
 At Edith Hamilton's he oft wastes his time
 Fixing stove pipes covered with grime;
 But his company is sought by other ladies;
 To get him they'll go as far as Hades...
 Martha Gay and Betty Campbell
 Are both of them a good example.
 Finally, however, Anne Clarke Haight
 Desires to get rid of her useless mate,
 And marches off to see the judge;
 Fred Mayer it is who settles her grudge.
 Leave these idle rich of 'thirty-three
 And notice these others who are on the sea.
 Over the ocean a liner flees;
 At boo an hour it slips through the seas.
 Bernice Beauregard is at the controls,
 And that is why the vessel rolls.
 She talks to Bab Cady all the day,
 Who yells and howls about the pay,
 For she's first mate in the speeding boat.
 All wrapped up in an overcoat
 Is Helen Buckley the captain fair,
 With flashing eyes and flaming hair.
 She shouts her orders to the ship's bell-boy,
 Who is none other than Bill Meloy.
 The charming stewardess, Esther Goldstein,
 The former flame of Eddie Bernstein,
 Brings report of a stowaway,
 An emboldened girl named Arthurmay,
 Who's just escaped on a hardwon furlough
 From the gentle evangelist, Elinor Burlow,
 Who collects huge sums, like Aimee Semple,
 Whenever she speaks in the Moronic Temple.
 But Arthurmay was sick of her gaff
 So she shipped on the boat with a dirty laugh.
 The ship is filled with folk of all sorts;
 Let's take a look through some of the ports.
 In cabin one is Elizabeth Gloster,
 Who shot six husbands because they bossed her.
 Around the corner is Kenwood Ross;
 He's trying to be her seventh boss.
 Down in the steerage, selling boloney,
 Is the Sausage King, one Bill Figoni;
 And enjoying his wares is Jacob Eaton;
 At eatin' boloney he can't be beaten.
 Three decks above, in luxurious quarters,
 Bennett and Newman slave as porters.
 In the boiler room is Robert Scherner,
 Warming himself o'er a Bunsen burner.
 It seems his wife, ex-Phyllis Markham,
 Has kicked his shins till she did bark 'em,
 And in the salon hang pictures in frames,
 Done by Artist Whalen for the Colonial Dames.
 But since these ladies didn't find them good,
 They sold them to dealer Donald Wood,
 Who passed them on to this ocean liner.

Which hadn't the money for anything finer.
 Admiring them now is a motley crowd
 Held spellbound, although not quite cowed.
 By a highpowered saleslady, Kathleen Tucker,
 Who finds no trouble in landing a sucker.
 And out on the deck, pierced by Cupid's dart,
 Are Joseph Riga and Celia Hart;
 She looks at the water and skies and sighs,
 While he gazes in awe at her lustrous eyes.
 Rosemary Griffith struts by with pride,
 Lucky Leon Lipsitt at her side;
 While Agatha Homicki, with a Garbo smile,
 Lures Prince Michael Langone with her guile;
 Although 'tis whispered that, at a pinch,
 She'd be contented to get Jack Lynch.
 But he's on the other side of the ship
 Giving Brenda Boynton some of his lip.
 But this is enough of the folks at sea;
 I'll try a change if you'll pardon me.
 Let's get back to land; for here we find
 Steve Baranowsky, the master mind,
 Who has invented a machine,
 The like of which has not been seen.
 It'll fly for miles right straight up
 Because of a wondrous vacuum cup.
 Some funny mugs are climbing in:
 Madorsky's soused right through his skin;
 After him come spinsters two,
 Of chances to wed they've had but few,
 Mary Holland and Miss Handyside,
 Who've saved their money for this ride.
 They entrust their lives to Brainless Bob
 And to Klibanoff, who's off his knob.
 The door is closed; the flight is on.
 Far below the earth is gone.
 Mozley now looks out to seas,
 And trembles as if he did freeze.
 Madorsky shivers at the sight,
 For he is scared at any height.
 The girls now giggle and hurray;
 "What a thrill" they now both say.
 Klib, who likes to see things drop,
 [For he, you know, is one big flop]
 With a happy joyous shout,
 Takes the controls and throws them out.
 The plane now falters and does explode;
 Into the air it hurls its load.
 Where are they now? Oh ain't that swell!
 All the Blank Blank prophets have gone to Hell!
 As in Dante's inferno, they are accursed
 To forever walk backwards with heads reversed.

Remember please 'twas all in fun,
 And with these words, our work is done.

BEST IN YEARS

The above picture is of some of the principles in a revue which, to say the least, was good. Life at Central was lived over again in a short hour. Everybody in the Senior class, if not everybody present, will remember the snappy song and dance numbers, which expressed in comedy fashion the life at Central in and out of the class room. The Blue and White staff is sure that ten years from now, some evening, many in the Senior class will wish to recall some of the interesting days in high school. What better way would there be than to take out this Blue and White and sing over a few of these original songs, and in doing so recall the characters of the songsters. For this reason the program and a few of the song hits are printed.

THE PROGRAM

MISS SNELL — Without whom, what?

OTHERS WHO APPEARED IN THE CAST

CHARLES WEITZMAN	MYRTLE BRUNELLE
HAROLD LABOVITZ	HELEN BUCKLEY
EDWIN BERNSTEIN	MARY DUNLEA
LILLIAN MOUNT	DORIS CHAPMAN
SYLVIA GOLDART	ELINOR BURLOW
BERNICE BEAUREGARD	ESTHER GOLDSTEIN
WINIFRED WALLACE	HELEN RAWSTRON
MITCHELL MORRIS	BERNARD BERNSTEIN
KENNETH KILBURN	JAMES GOFFARD
KATHRYN BENHAM	DOROTHY RICE

An unforgettable skit not on the program was acted by Edwin Bernstein and Company. He broke into the first act by reading admirably, in a loud and raucous voice, a love story which was acted by his company. The cast of this skit follows:

BERNARD BERNSTEIN	Manuel Del Populo
CHARLES WEITZMAN	Patrick
HAROLD COHN	Maggie Machree
JAMES GOFFARD	Zingerella
HAROLD LABOVITZ	} Curtains and Hours
KENNETH KILBURN
FRANK UMANSKY	The Sun

Special mention should be made of the management.

The dances were arranged and directed by Rosemary Todd. The musical director was Lenore Shankman. Geraldine Southmayd did great work as Dramatic Director. The stage manager and his helpers must not be forgotten. They were Lloyd Rich, Clark Richards, and Robert Sharpe. The poets were Lenore Shankman, who wrote among others "Isn't It a Pity", Morris Lerner, who wrote "School Days", Geraldine Southmayd, who wrote, beside the one printed, "One Hour With You", and Rosemary Todd who wrote "How Happy I Am."

Below are a few of the song hits:

"SHUFFLE OFF TO TROUBLE"

Written by Geraldine Southmayd.

Now that we have had a recitation.

And just got by,

Next we'll have to stand examination:

It makes me sigh.

Questions that will shake us;

It will be a fracas;

We're gonna make a desperate try.

We'll go up and get a panning

On the Virgil that we're scanning.

For we don't know how, oh, oh, oh!

Off we gotta shuffle, shuffle off to trouble now.

In the class room we will tremble,

As attention we dissemble.

And the hours drag slow, oh, oh, oh!

Off we gotta shuffle, shuffle off to trouble now.

To know the date when something happened,

And learn a lot of such dull things;

Just a struggle till the days end,

While waiting for the bell to ring.

For an algebra equation

Sure can be the sad occasion

Of an awful row, oh, oh, oh!

Off we gotta shuffle, shuffle off to trouble now.

Sung by ZEDRA JURIST.

Accompanied by a dance led by VIRGINIA BULLARD

THE CLASS SONG

Oh, Alma Mater! We must part
From dearest ties and from dearest friends,
But memories in every heart
Will linger to the very end.

Dear Miss Snell and "Fitzie" too,
Our guardian angels of Central High,
Advised so wise our ... 33 ...
With all our thanks we say goodbye! So!

As Central High goes marching thru the years
We know her teams will always persevere;
So we will give three cheers for Central High!
Central High! Rah! Rah! Rah!

The time has come to say goodbye,
And to raise up every stein;
So farewell dear old Central High,
The school of Auld Lang Syne.

Words by BARBARA SHARPE.
Music by LENORE SHANKMAN.

WHEN I'M THE PRINCIPAL

Because I am a pupil,
There's nothing I can do,
But if I were the Principal,
I'd fix a thing or two.
Oh when I'm the Principal, when I'm the Principal,
There'll be no detention, when I'm the Principal,
When I'm the Principal.

Chorus: No detention, no detention.

I sing of arms and a hero,
Who first from Illiam came;
Who had to write in Latin, and
Drive us all insane.
Oh when I'm the Principal, when I'm the Principal,
I'll have teachers do translations,
When I'm the Principal.

Chorus: No more Latin, no more Latin.

And as for sines and cosines
Whatever they may be,
And logs and their mantissas,
O please deliver me.
Oh when I'm the Principal, when I'm the Principal,
There'll be no mathematics,
When I'm the Principal.

Chorus: We'll take readin', we'll take writin'.

Pourquoi on parle français,
Toujours de mal en pis,
Et ou vous voulez aller
Is a mystery to me.
Oh when I'm the Principal, when I'm the Principal,
I'll just teach French in Paris,
When I'm the Principal.

Chorus: We'll speak English, we'll speak English.

Whenever you are called on
And do not know a thing,
Why you just press a button,
And the recess bell will ring.
Oh when I'm the Principal, when I'm the Principal,
I'll stop examinations,
When I'm the Principal.

Chorus: No more flunking, no more flunking.

Assembly is a part of school,
That we would all adore.
I'd have one every morning,
And some days I'd have more.
Oh when I'm the Principal, when I'm the Principal,
I'll have Cantor for a speaker,
When I'm the Principal.

Chorus: We want Cantor, we want Cantor.

School friends are the best friends,
And school days golden days.
I'd have them last and never end,
But continue on always.
Oh when I'm the Principal, when I'm the Principal,
I'll just have school for grownups,
When I'm the Principal. Hey!

Written and sung by GERALDINE SOUTHMAYD.

TWO TICKETS FROM CENTRAL

Two tickets from Central;
Now where do we go.
Two tickets from Central;
No work, heigh-ho!
Two tickets to freedom;
Two tickets to bliss;
Two tickets from prison;
O, what we'll miss!
Come on and dance,
Not a backward glance
At that school romance.
Oh! that senior dance.
Hey — freshies!
You stay here at Central;
You'll find it O. K.
You stay here at Central;
We're on our way.

The Ballot of the Class of 1933

The staff intended to get snap shots of all the people in the ballot. Fate, however, proclaimed otherwise. There was not enough light; there was too much light. "Bill Meloy tried to take pictures with the back end of his camera." [Quote from Morris Lerner]. "Morris Lerner took all his pictures without turning the film." [Quote from Bill Meloy.] The result of rather long arduous labors was ten rather poor snapshots which L. W. said would have to do. We, therefore, present you readers with these ten pictures, hoping that you will be helped to imagine what the rest would be.

To the class of 1933 these pictures need no identification, but for the sake of lower classmen, who may aspire to sometime help fill up a similar page in another Blue and White, a list of the illustrious people in the picture is printed. 1. Helen Buckley, the girl who has done the most for the class of '33. 2. Roger Ettling, the boy with the most pleasing personality. 3. Robert Elmer, the most intelligent boy. 4. John Crosby, the best dressed boy. 5. Lillian Mount, the cutest girl. 6. Rosemary Griffith, the girl with the most pleasing personality. 7. James Gray, the boy who has done the most for the class of '33. 8. James Goffard, the class baby. 9. Wilson Haight, the tallest boy. 10. Virginia Camp, the best dressed girl. A complete list of the ballot follows:

The Presentations of the Class of 1933

JAMES GRAY.

Will James Gray please slip this way. Jimmie, you have slipped into the class president's chair; you have slipped in and out of study halls; and now you are slipping out of Central. Here is a can of oil to help you slip to fame.

WILLIAM CANFIELD.

The next on the program is Mr. William Canfield, the great debater and orator. He is able to wiggle out of almost any situation. We offer you for your future speeches this soap box.

MARIE GLACCU.

Will Marie please present herself before Bill retires, so that we may give her this piano. We hope that you will play "Sweet and Low" among other songs, to sooth Bill's tired brain after a hard day on the soap box.

FRED MAYER.

If you are not too busy, Fred, will you step up here for a moment. We are giving you this ticket to Hollywood because we hear there is a shortage of "yes" men there at present. You should make good in your first picture "The President's Handy Man", when one considers all the notions you have helped our Hon. President pass.

RICHARD STROUT.

Come forward you Spanish Athlete, and receive the reward. Here is a silken veil to cover your blushes when you throw the bull next time.

KENWOOD ROSS.

Hey! Ken, got "somethin" for "ya". Here is a book on ventriloquism which may enable you in the future to play your jokes, and still keep out of trouble.

FRANK UMANSKY.

Will the fellow who pulled this original joke make his confession at once by coming forward: "I just had a big fight in the lunch room; the chicken was killing me." Frank, we should give you a book on how to make original jokes, but because you are such a ladies' man we are giving you this unique collection of "Tactful Conversations", at Miss Snell's request.

AGNES REYNOLDS.

Paging Miss Agnes Reynolds. Agnes, you have so faithfully sold class pins and rings that we are going to give you this ring. Let's see you sell that for $6.50.

LLOYD RICH.

Lloyd, everyone knows that you are Central's favorite actor, and I suppose we should send you to Hollywood with Fred Mayer, but we believe you missed your calling. Here is a book on "How to be a Plumber" in five lessons.

RICHARD BENNETT.

Come and get it Dick. Cigars cost a lot of money in these times, especially when you wear one out at every football game when Central gets past the fifty yard line; so have a rubber one instead.

EDWIN BERNSTEIN.

Ed, I'll bet those big dogs of yours get tired after trying all afternoon to find which "Tech" man has the football; so have some "Sloan's Liniment!"

DAN O'NEIL.

Dan, how does it feel to be the handy man around the class? We think you should have a porter's cap. Miss Fitzgerald hopes you'll get a tip sometimes.

NANCY LAPHAM.

Nancy, every one knows that you are a frail little thing and that everyone picks on you. Remember the time you were sore at some one, no one knew whom, but that made little difference. We don't intend to let anyone annoy you any more — have this man for your protector." [a boy doll].

THOMAS TUOEY.

Tom, everyone seems to think you are a caveman — we have been wondering if you were a Pithecanthropus erectus or a Neanderthal man. Anyway, here is a club.

SAM CROWTHER.

Sam, you have earned the distinction of being the laziest boy in our class. Whether you are or not is something we do not know. We do know, however, that Dr. Law would like some of your civilization maps. But on general principals we believe this box of 'pep' would do you some good.

The Will of the Class of 1933

We, the Class of 1933, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three, and in the foundation of Central High School, the ninety-second, enjoying good health of body, and being of sound mind, nevertheless considering the uncertainty of existence, and for the purpose that we may leave Central in good standing, do for these reasons, hereby make and declare this to be our last will and testament, in the following manner, that is to say:

1. We hereby appoint as our executors, Miss Snell and Miss Fitzgerald.

2. We order that all just debts and funeral expenses be paid as soon following our decease as may be judged expedient.

3. To the 10B Class we leave our regrets. We never gave them anything while we lived; so why should we give them anything when we die?

4. To the 10A Class we bequeath our capacity for doing everything and anything better than everybody and anybody. We stipulate, however, that this ability is to be used only in times of great stress.

5. To the Junior Class we leave the front seats of the assembly hall, inasmuch as their increased height and magnified intellect must have dimmed their powers of audition.

6. Carefully considering the last five years, and being convinced that unrelenting time will eventually remove him from these halls of learning, "Doctor" Harry Daum, fearful lest he be suddenly and unexpectedly separated from this part of the solar system, does here and now give and bequeath unto "Fat" Petty his inestimable influence with Mr. Curtis.

7. Having the interest of Central close to their hearts, Mr. Arthur Pease and Mr. Sam Crowther, believing that student government will be furthered at Central, and realizing that many important innovations must be effected by the student government body, and forgetting that the school board can veto their plans, and foreseeing that moneys will be necessary for these changes, leave a stupendous sum of money to be judiciously expended for the following causes:

1. For the installation and maintenance of a smoking room where devotees of Lady Nicotine may enjoy fragrant puffs, unhampered by faculty frustration.

2. To supply free tickets to their favorite Opera, La Detention.

8. To Henry McDonough, the up and coming wrestler, we leave a towel. Let it never be said that one Centralite left another out in the cold.

9. Harry Ehrlich leaves Central at last in possession of that much prized award, magna cum celeritate.

10. Rosemary Todd, mistress of the Terpsichorean Art and the Drama, leaves her ability to those girls, who grow tired of life at Central, that they may follow the royal road to Hollywood.

11. Lenore Shankman and Zedra Jurist, considering themselves members of the set with appellation, intelligence, leave their brains to the Central biology classes, to be disposed of in the best possible manner.

12. "Slew" Cummings, who for three years has been trying to imbibe from one of Central's so called drinking fountains, leaves about three hundred hogsheads to be placed at suitable points, and to be filled daily.

13. To Joey Michelman, Central's diminutive short-stop, we leave two bottles of glue and three sheets of fly-paper to be applied before every game.

14. Realizing the popular need, we leave to 323, a gum-machine to keeps students' mouths going, thereby confusing the teachers, and minimizing the danger of detention.

15. To the members of Room 323, 217, 218, or to those of any room who are also suffering from the pests, we leave three gross of mouse traps; one to be placed in each desk to catch the book-borrower, pencil-filcher, and the pen-breaker.

16. In view of the fact that Central has not yet made provision for the person whose name will never be read on the honor roll, who will never receive a prize, who takes five years to graduate, we leave a booby prize to be given annually to the person in each class who has the worst record.

17. To the school department we leave four bags of powdered charcoal, to be diluted and used in place of the substance now residing in the inkwells, which is called ink.

18. Ken Ross bequeaths that becoming attitude of dumb docility to Oscar Dean, although Oscar does pretty well himself.

19. Jake Eaton leaves his position of Central chauffeur extraordinary to anyone who is willing to fill it.

20. Don Wood leaves his amazing ability to make humorous remarks that have no humor to no one in Central. We have endured it long enough.

21. Bill Canfield leaves his drag with Mr. Ed Smith to "Red" Jensen.

In witness whereof we have signed and published and declared this our last will and testament, on this tenth day of May, 1933.

Signed: JAMES GRAY,
President.

Signed, published, and declared by the above named president as and for the last will and testament of the class of 1933 in the presence of us who, at his request, have drawn up and signed as witness to the same.

Signed: WILLIAM CANFIELD,
HAROLD COHN

Prize Winners

Back row: Philip Chase, Esther Bloom, Herbert Harrington, Villa Bailey, Harold Webster.

The following students won prizes or special mention because of outstanding merit in some field of work:

Elizabeth Dorr was the winner of the Martin Freedman Memorial Award which is given each year to that member of the graduating class who has the best record in English throughout the high school course. She was also the winner, in 1932, of the Radcliffe Book Prize which is given by the Radcliffe Club of Springfield to the girl in the 11A and 12B classes who has the highest rank for the course up to the end of her junior year.

Villa Bailey was the winner of the Emilie de Rochemont Prize which is given each semester to the member of the group finishing fourth year Latin who has the best record for the course. She was also winner of the prize given by the Mathematics Department to the student who has the highest standing in Mathematics.

Philip Chase was winner of the Washington and Franklin Medal given by the Massachusetts Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, each semester, to that student with the best rank in American History for the year's course just finished.

Robert Elmer was the winner of the German Prize which is a book given by the German Department to that student just finishing three years of German with the highest rank for the course. He was also the winner, in 1932, of the Washington and Franklin Medal and of the Harvard Book Prize given by the Connecticut Valley Harvard Club to the boy in the 11A and 12B classes who has the highest rank for the course up to the end of his junior year.

BERNSTEIN, Captain

Central had a fair season on the gridiron, considering that eight men out of the eleven were green and inexperienced in varsity football. The Blue and White gridsters had a knack of doing just the opposite of what the predictions of the local sportswriters were. They traveled to Hartford, and even though defeated by a heavier and more experienced Hartford Public High team, they put up a much better showing than was expected. Two weeks later they traveled to Worcester, and again they contradicted the dopesters by defeating the Worcester North High team. The Holyoke game on the following Friday was a tough one to figure out for everyone but the gridsters themselves. Central had been defeated the year before by Holyoke. The only thing for them to do was to atone for that defeat. It was atoned. Central gave Holyoke a good trouncing. After its showing against Holyoke, Central was given an even chance against the strong Tech High team. Although our team was defeated by one touchdown, it clearly outplayed Tech. Again Central was picked to win over Trade School, but the Central gridsters did a poor job on this assignment and were beaten by three touchdowns. However in the last game enough of the old fighting spirit returned to play a scoreless tie with Commerce High School.

Manager — RICHARD WALLACE

The soccer team of 1932 did not fare so well as teams in previous years. This year's team won only two games, both being from Trade, and lost five. The first game of the season was a tie game with Tech. Most of the games, however, were lost in the last few minutes of play, and were always closely contested. This year's team was built mostly from last year's second team.

Basketball

Late in October, after the fall sports are over, basketball comes into prominence. Teams representing all the classes of the school from the 10B class to the Junior College were organized early in the season. After a terrific struggle the 12B class won the championship, beating the 12A's [20-19]. In this league, Fine, of the 12A's was the leading scorer. After graduation, three new leagues were formed. A league, for the more experienced players; B league, for the average players; and C league, for the beginners. The Eagles, led by the high scorer of A league, Milton Kobrosky, won the championship in the A league. The Hillbillies, led by Bill Petty, high scorer of B league, won the B league championship. The Everreadies and Racketeers tied for high place in the C league. In the next round, the Sharpshooters, who had lost out to the Eagles, came back and beat out the Eagles for the championship of A league. Again Milton Kobrosky was leading scorer, with Barr and Fine a close second and third. More than 175 boys took part in the sport.

KENNETH WAKEM, Manager

Pessimism was in order when Coach Reid called out the aspirants for the baseball team. Of last year's team only three veterans were available besides two first-string substitutes. Russell Brassard, first base, Joey Michelman, shortstop, and Bob Masco, star pitcher were the tried men, while "Itchy" Barr and Fred Berard, outfielders were the substitutes.

Before long, however, Harold Webster proved his worth as a second basemen, and "Mike" Pessolano, giving a superb exhibition of throwing, was given third base to guard. Dan O'Neil won the last available position in right field with his defensive ability. This was the team, except for the interchange of the positions of Michelman and Webster, which met Tech at Forest Park on May 11. With Masco pitching a masterpiece, and his mates giving him flawless support, Central walked off the field with a three to nothing win. After this auspicious start everybody was anxiously awaiting the Central - Trade game the following week. The result was not so good for Central. We were beaten 12-0. However, not discouraged, as the Blue and White goes to press, the team is practicing hard and is ready to oppose Commerce. There is still hope for the inter-school championship. [Written by Joey Michelman, May 25, 1933.]

HARRY EHRLICH, Manager

For the past eight years, Central has won the Interschool Championship. Last year, the team was led by John Laming, third ranking player in New England. This year's team has very little veteran material, but Coach Bill Finn expects to put out another championship team with the material he has on hand. Of last year's team, Laming, Haselhuhn, Derber, D. Clark, Gottesman, and Samuels have graduated.

This year the Central tennis team has four matches, two against Tech and two against Commerce. So far the team has played one of these matches against Commerce. The final score was six to nothing in favor of Central. The squad has an even chance to beat Tech next week, as this school has one of the best teams it has ever had. If Central defeats Tech, it will retain the interscholastic championship which it has never lost. The prospects of having a good team next year are very encouraging because there are only four of the ten men graduating. As competition is keen among all these players, we are sure to have a fine team next spring. [Written by Clark Richards, May 25, 1933.]

Golf

The 1932 golf team had a poor year as is shown by the scores. In 1931 the team won the city championship, but last year the golf team only won one game, that being from Trade. They lost the next two games to Commerce and Tech, then tied Trade, and lost the last game to Commerce.

This year the Central golf team has a schedule of six matches; two matches each with Tech, Commerce, and Trade. To date, May 25, 1933, only two matches have been played. Trade defeated Central in a very close match by a score of 7 to 5. Central defeated Commerce by a score of 8 to 4. Although this year's team is not outstanding, there are great possibilities of making a fine showing in the interschool championship. Buchan and Blackie are the outstanding performers, consistently breaking 90. [Written by Robert Scherner, May 25, 1933.]

The Central crew began the season in four-oared shells in preparation for a half-mile race against South Kent, Conn., prep school on May 6. Although the varsity four lost to the South Kent oarsmen, the junior varsity evened up matters by a victory over the South Kent junior varsity. The oarsmen are now practicing in eights for the Regatta of the Springfield High Schools to take place on the Connecticut river, June 10. Of the 1932 crew, which was runner-up for the city championship, Central has six men who are back this year. Louis Cosmos, stroke and captain last year and this year, Robert Quintal, Jack Alger, and Steven Baranowsky, coxswain, still hold their former positions in the stern, while Edward Caruso and Charles Miller are in number 3 and number 4, respectively. Roger Ettling, substitute on the varsity in 1931, Bradford Howes, and Charles Corcoran, both from last year's second crew, are the new men that occupy the rest of the positions. Except for the coxswain, Timothy Herlihy, the entire second crew is composed of oarsmen who had no previous experience, but it is very anxious to show what it can do. Among the second crew William Meloy was so outstanding that he immediately took over the stroke position and a berth as substitute on the varsity as well. The line-ups of the Central crews that aspire to make a good showing in the regatta are as follows: [Written by Steven Baranowsky, May 25, 1933.]

$500 REWARD

Dead or Alive

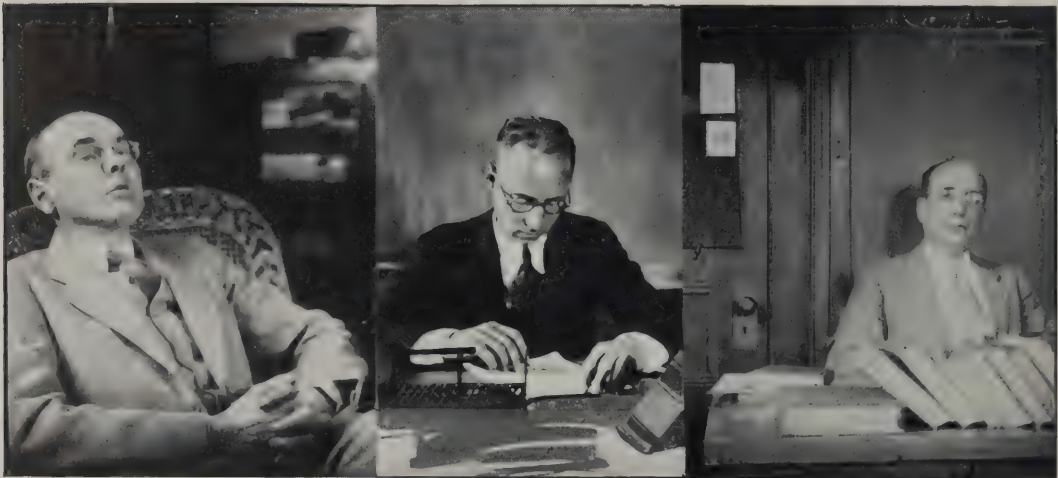

Five hundred dollars reward will be given to anyone who gives information leading to the arrest of anyone of the desperate characters pictured below. Warning is hereby given that although they appear to be refined, their gentle demeanors cloak cunning natures that will go to any length to resist apprehension.

ALGER BRAGE OMETRY, alias L. W., is wanted for gambling. It is alleged that he has taken such chances as leaving his classes on their honor, when they were taking tests which meant passing or failing his course. He may be easily identified by the chalky appearance of his coat.

HARRY Himself, alias Lord Jeff, is a dangerous public enemy. He is said never to agree with anyone. Although he may disguise himself in all other particulars, he cannot get rid of his tell-tale nose.

FRANK Why Yes, alias Shrimp Wiggle, because of his great size will be hard to capture. It is feared that he is trying to subvert the government. He is always writing messages in code. One of them can be seen in the picture. FulF (ne)X, throw them at him.

Fourth Drunk: [German] Hoch!

Taxi stops and driver waits for fare.

First Drunk: [in a fog points to Second Drunk] He!

Second Drunk: [Englishman indignant] Hi!

Third Drunk: [aso English] H-aye!
